 - Importance to a wide or critical/influential population
 - Evaluation of a specific practice
 - Fills a research gap
 - Originality of the research
 - Contribution to existing knowledge

2.2. Background of the Study

- This is a discussion of the circumstances or conditions, etc. that led to the conceptualization of the proposed research. This states the reasons why the particular research problem is selected for investigation.

2.3. Statement of the Research Problem

- This is a discussion of the research problem/s to be addressed, answered or solved by the proposed research.

2.4. Objectives

- This includes the general and specific objectives addressed by the proposed research. The objectives should describe the goals or expected results of the proposed research.

2.5. Discussion of Literature Related to the Field

- This discusses the literature related to the proposed research. It may include formal literature in local and international publications, relevant personal communications, unpublished materials (e.g. theses and dissertations), and other similarly verifiable sources.
- The review should discuss the following:
 - Status of the problem/topic under study
 - Relation to the general and specific objectives and pertinence to the stated hypotheses
 - Illustrate theoretical approaches to the problem/s and points out inconsistencies in results, data gaps, and methodological inadequacies
 - Relation to other researches in the field
- Include a bibliography after Item 2.7.

2.6. Theoretical Framework

- This evaluates and interprets obtained information. The predicted relationships between/among variables must be illustrated mathematically, graphically or textually. Research variables to be investigated include independent, intervening and dependent variables (artistic expressions/materials should be presented as variables). Operational definitions* and indicators should be consistent with those cited in the review of literature and must be consensually acceptable measures of the specific variables of the study.

 * The operational definition assigns meaning to a variable or concept by specifying the activities or "operations" necessary to measure it.

2.7. Methodology

- Research design describes the systematic plan to obtain the needed information. It includes, but is not limited to, the following:
 - Sampling method/Data collection procedures. It includes a justification for the choice of the sampling method, sampling size, and subjects/respondents. Data collection procedures show how the procedures will help satisfy the research objectives. Includes an enumeration of the expected data outputs. Append data collection materials to be used, e.g., questionnaires, observations forms, etc.
 - Description of the respondents
 - Description of the major/main data to be collected
 - Planned analysis. Illustrates the various ways by which the data gathered would be analyzed and interpreted in relation to the research objectives. Specify the planned measures & statistical tools and confidence levels, if applicable.
 - Necessary permits/consent should be obtained in cases where research would involve human/animal experimentation, genetic engineering, etc. Identify the people or institutions from whom/where the necessary permits/consent will be obtained.

2.8. Additional Information

- Has the study been started? If no, when will it start? If yes, when did it start? What activities have been accomplished?
